Daniel Lefort

I have been working in the language industry for the past 20 years. After graduating from the University of Angers in France, I worked as a translator and then for many years as an English and French teacher in many countries. I have also travelled extensively as a leader with groups of students who were going on immersion trips. I have been working at ILSC Montreal for the past 7 years, first as the Director of Corporate training and most recently as the new Director here. I also had the chance to work at ILSC India in New Delhi last summer and it was such an amazing experience.

I love working in a multicultural environment with students from all over the world. It's fun to watch their enthusiasm when they arrive here and see how their language skills progress throughout their stay. It's motivational for me to be part of their experience.

I am also an amateur artist and enjoy painting and taking photographs. I especially like abstract art. Montreal has many cultural venues and there is always an opening to attend or a new exhibition to visit. Montreal is a very vibrant city and you will have so many cultural options to choose from this summer! See you soon!
